INFORMATION

THE UNITED STATES ATTORNEY CHARGES THAT:

At all times relevant to this information:

1. The United States Golf Association (“USGA”) was a non-profit organization with its headquarters in Liberty Corner, New Jersey, whose mission was to champion and advance the game of golf. The USGA was the governing body for golf in the United States, its territories, and Mexico. The USGA not only produced and interpreted the rules of golf as well as provided a national handicap system for golfers, it also conducted 14 national championship tournaments, including the U.S. Men’s Open (the “U.S. Open”), U.S. Women's Open, and U.S. Senior Open. Certain USGA championship tournaments were ticketed events, including the U.S. Open.

2. The U.S. Open was considered by many golf enthusiasts to be one of the highlights of the golf season. The U.S. Open was conducted by the USGA and was held in the United States in June of each year at select host venue clubs. It was one of the four major championships in men's golf. The U.S. Open was the largest revenue generating event for the USGA on an annual basis. The USGA sold various types of tickets to the U.S. Open, the pricing of which would range each year depending on the type of ticket offering, and would generally include: single day mid-week gallery admission tickets (starting at approximately $50 per ticket); full week gallery admission tickets (for approximately $500 per ticket); and single day, multi-day and week-long package tickets for its various club-levels, ranging from the "Trophy Club," which provided access to an on-site, air conditioned pavilion that offered food and beverage for purchase (starting at approximately $75 for a single-day mid-week ticket to approximately $245 for a weekend single-day ticket), to the "1895 Club," which provided all-inclusive access to a separate, on-site, air-conditioned pavilion featuring breakfast, buffet lunch with hot entrees, afternoon snacks and full bar service (starting at approximately $250 for a single-day mid-week ticket to approximately $585 for a single-day weekend ticket).

3. The 2013 U.S. Open was held at the Merion Golf Club in Ardmore, Pennsylvania. The 2014 U.S. Open was held at the Pinehurst Resort in Pinehurst, North Carolina. The 2015 U.S. Open was held at Chambers Bay in University Place, Washington. The 2016 U.S. Open was held at the Oakmont Country Club in Oakmont, Pennsylvania. The 2017 U.S. Open was held at Erin Hills in Erin, Wisconsin. The 2018 U.S. Open was held at the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club in Southampton, New York. The 2019 U.S. Open was held at the Pebble Beach Golf Links in Pebble Beach, California.

4. A ticket broker was a person or entity involved in the business of reselling tickets of admission to places of entertainment. Ticket brokers typically charged a premium in excess of the face value of the tickets. Tickets sold by a ticket broker might or might not be authorized by the official seller.

5. The USGA sold tickets to certain championships, including the U.S. Open, through its website, through telephone calls to the USGA Admission's Office, or through select authorized ticket sellers. The USGA imposed strict limits on the number of tickets sold to any one person or entity to a maximum of approximately 20 tickets. The purpose of the limit was to maintain price integrity and to prevent ticket brokers and other persons from purchasing large batches of tickets and reselling them to the public.

6. From 2013 through 2019, the USGA generated revenues of approximately $200,000,000 per year, with its two largest sources of revenue consisting of its sale of media rights to and ticket sales for admission to its national championship tournaments. The USGA relied on ticket sales to its championship events to continue operations and fulfill its mission. Ticket sales from 2013 through 2019 generated varying annual revenues from between approximately $16 million to approximately $25 million. Other revenue sources for the USGA included competitor entry fees, merchandise sold on-site at the championships, sales of corporate hospitality packages, corporate merchandise sales, royalties associated with the manufacture and sales of merchandise bearing USGA marks, and revenue from the sales of food and beverages.

7. Co-conspirator Robert Fryer, charged separately, was employed by the USGA in the USGA Admissions Office. As a result of his employment, Fryer had access to U.S. Open tickets that the USGA maintained at its headquarters in Liberty Corner, New Jersey, and that the USGA maintained on-site at the various U.S. Open tournaments. Neither Fryer, nor any other USGA personnel in the USGA Admissions Office, were ever authorized to provide tickets to USGA tournaments to individuals and/or ticket brokers at zero cost for resale on the secondary market. Similarly, neither Fryer, nor any other USGA personnel in the USGA Admissions Office, were ever authorized to sell USGA tournament tickets and keep the proceeds of those sales for their own benefit. Instead, all ticket sales were required to be made through the USGA as an entity, with all payments for tickets to be made to the USGA.

8. Defendant JEREMI MICHAEL CONAWAY served first as an employee, and later a Vice President of Operations for Company #1, a secondary ticket marketing company (i.e., ticket broker) that was located and operated in the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, from in or about June 2000 until on or about February 14, 2016.

9. On or about October 28, 2014, defendant JEREMI MICHAEL CONAWAY established Eagle Eye Ticketing Management, LLC (“Eagle Eye”), a secondary ticket marketing company (i.e., ticket broker) that was located and operated in the Eastern District of Pennsylvania. Defendant CONAWAY was Eagle Eye’s President. At all times since its inception, defendant CONAWAY has been the sole owner of Eagle Eye.

10. Defendant JEREMI MICHAEL CONAWAY sold tickets to various concerts and sporting events, including the U.S. Open, through Company #1 (as a Company #1 employee) and Eagle Eye (as the owner of Eagle Eye).

11. Co-conspirator Robert Fryer maintained a bank account at Santander Bank (formerly Sovereign Bank) ending in 1417.

12. Co-conspirator Robert Fryer maintained a bank account at TD Bank ending in 1821.

13. Co-conspirator Robert Fryer utilized a Gmail email account hosted by Google LLC (“Google”). Google did not maintain any data centers in Pennsylvania. Google maintained data centers in Alabama, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Tennessee, Georgia, Texas, Oklahoma, Ohio, Iowa, Nevada, and Oregon. All emails sent to or from a Gmail email account traveled electronically via wire from the location of origin, through one of the Google data centers.
